

Steve Brandstetter

Estimator / Project Manager

SUMMARY

Before settling into estimating, Steve was a project manager overseeing projects throughout the United States. His proactive management approach included constructability reviews, conceptual cost estimates, value engineering and preliminary scheduling. An energetic self starter with strong communication, problem solving skills and organizational skills along with his extensive background makes Steve as a natural as preconstruction estimator. He has solicited and analyzed quotations from subcontractors, performed quality analysis and prepared bids and proposals for projects in excess of $20 million.
